What is Supported Decision Making?

• At its most basic, Supported Decision Making is having people you trust to help you make decisions
• Part of our culture for everyone
• Can be formal or informal
The Spectrum of Decision Making Supports

- No defined needs or supports
- Power of Attorney and/or formal SDM agreement, Rep Payee or Trust
- Limited or full guardianship or conservatorship

Supported Decision Making can be used
Why Should Students and Families Consider SDM?

• Self-determination studies on safety and quality of life
• Increasing independence
• Dignity of Risk and learning from mistakes
• Preservation of Rights
• Minimal to no cost
• Valid for IEPs and other school decisions
Why Should Students and Families Consider SDM Part 2?

- Can be implemented immediately and changed as needed
- Growing a culture of support network and reducing reliance on one person
- Virginia law, National Guardianship Association, and best practices all emphasize the least restrictive options being fully explored before other options are pursued
- Virginia is considering additional SDM legislation
National Guardianship Association Statement on SDM

• Guardianship should be utilized only when lesser restrictive supports are not available. Alternatives to guardianship, including supported decision making, should always be identified and considered whenever possible prior to the commencement of guardianship proceedings.

• Under all circumstances, efforts should be made to encourage every person under guardianship to exercise his/her individual rights retained and participate, to the maximum extent of the person's abilities, in all decisions that affect him or her, to act on his or her own behalf in all matters in which the person is able to do so, and to develop or regain his or her own capacity to the maximum extent possible.

• Supported decision making should be considered for the person before guardianship, and the supported decision-making process should be incorporated as a part of the guardianship if guardianship is necessary.
What if Something Bad Happens???

- There is no mandate to have a guardian for any part of education/IEPs
- We are all vulnerable
- No studies have show guardianship increases safety, but studies do show self-determination does
- Guardianship offers fewer protections than most people realize
- SDM utilizes and builds on strengths of the individual and their team
- We all learn to make better decisions by making mistakes
- Most people make some bad choices everyday, and that is okay
Helping Students and Families Get Started with SDM

• No time is too early

• When Do I Want Support from the ACLU
Helping Students and Families Put SDM into Action

• Talk about this as soon as you start meeting with a student
• Encourage students and families to read about it and get some ideas onto paper (see resource section at the end of this presentation)
• Let families know about free/low cost tools like our resource library and the VDOE POA
