Minimum Bid: $150

This beautiful bowl by glass artist Joseph Toole is made of fused glass in a Murrini style with hand made cane and an opaline rim. It measures approximately 11" in diameter and 3" deep.

Joe has been working in glass for over 30 years. Although he originally began working in just stained glass, he continues to explore many different techniques including glass painting, etching, fusing and mixed media which he incorporates in his work. He lives and works in Alexandria, Virginia and his pieces have received multiple awards in juried competitions in the Washington area.

Value: $800Courtesy of Joseph Toole Glass Studio

702 Set of Fused Glass Pins

This set of six fused glass pins by glass artist Joseph Toole can be yours, each one a unique creation. Joe uses a process in which glass is cut into a design, layered, and then heated in a kiln to approximately 1350 degrees at which point the glass melts just enough to "fuse" together to a single piece. Joe "freezes" the design at a specific temperature just before the glass begins to deform and lose its shape, and the result is that each design is unique with many incorporating iridized, textured and dichroic glass (the colored glass that seems to glow).
